OBITUARY.

Dr. J. A. Chapple died suddenly, May 16th, 1906, of heart failure, superinduced by asthma.

John Abner Chapple, D. D. S.

He had taken a seat at a table for his lunch in the restaurant of his office building, when he fell, unconscious and in a few minutes expired. He was a sufferer for many years from the malady which terminated in his death. His remains were interred at La Grange, Ga., beside two of his children who had died in years past. Dr. Chapple was born October 23, 1854, at Greensboro, Ga. When a child his parents, Robert and Martha Francis Chapple, moved to Athens, Ga., where he grew up to manhood being educated in the schools of that city. He was a student of dentistry under Dr. J. A. Lawrence also of Athens. He graduated from the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, class of 1874. Practiced at La Grange, Ga., until 1892, when he moved to Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Chapple was an active member of the Georgia State Dental Society and was one of its presidents, also was in active membership with the National Dental Association and its Southern Branch and the Chapin Harris Dental Society; and was an honorary member of numerous other dental bodies. For many years he was one of the faculty of the Atlanta Dental College which position he filled with most marked ability.
healing that should be attended by the dental doctor, we will have a vocation as highly dignified, as lucrative and more pleasant to follow than general medicine.

With reference to the subject of drugs or medicine, how many dentists in ten can write a simple prescription for neuralgia? We know not one in every ten is able to do this, or even able to make the simplest solution of cocaine for a local anesthetic. Should collapse happen his patient in the chair, that they know so little of medicine and its action, and their title of doctor is a sort of "make-believe" handle to their names.

That the dentist should have the knowledge of the average physician in reference to medicine, pathology, etc., is admitted, and therefore the place to get this is alongside of the medical student in the same class rooms. All the scientific branches in dental and medical colleges could and should be taken together by the students of both professions.

SCRAP PILE WANTED.

Under the heading of the "Scrap Pile" I desire to make a suggestion regarding raising a fund for San Francisco sufferers. From my experience during the past few weeks, the task of acquiring a sum sufficiently large to materially assist those in need, is a difficult one, and the "Scrap pile" idea evolved from the ease with which a goodly sum was collected in Kansas City a year ago for an event of minor importance, by simply requesting all asked to donate a portion of their gold scraps, several hundred pennyweight soon accumulated.

Now, let every dentist regardless of the fact whether or no, he has paid into other funds, box up a portion of his gold scraps, and send them to Dr. J. D. Patterson of Kansas City, Mo., Keith & Perry Bldg., Treasurer of National Relief Committee, and further assist those in need.

Yours,
J. P. Root.

The enterprise and courage of the members of the San Francisco drug trade were clearly exemplified during the recent disaster. Before the fire was extinguished they placed large orders with the manufacturing chemists. One house ordered 30,000 pounds of antiphlogistine, and altogether over 100,000 pounds were shipped to the coast upon order within a week.

On a steamer from New York, running up the California coast at the time of the earthquake, were 35,000 pounds of antiphlogistine, and upon orders from the home office, the emergency hospitals were liberally supplied free of charge.

"To Check Hemorrhage at Once in Cases of Pulp Removal"—Use Dr. Veo's Remedy.

Take a fine, smooth broach, wind a little cotton on the end, moisten with remedy. When pulp is removed, carry the remedy into the root canal and leave it for a few minutes,—there will be no hemorrhage. Often it is best to leave remedy on small piece of cotton in root canal at least a week if tooth is sore or sensitive. Before filling the root canal, wash it out with absolute alcohol.

To Our Subscribers.

The wind bloweth, the water floweth, the farmer soweth, and the subscriber oweth, and the good Lord knoweth that we are in need of our dues. So come a runnin’ ere we go a gunnin’; this thing of dunnin’ gives us the blues.

Exchange.
